

Luz de Todos los Tiempos / Light of All Times by Moisés Villavicencio Barras

Sister Satellite by Cathryn Cofell

“Moisés Villavicencio Barras’ second collection of poetry offers us in lush, sensual language his childhood in Oaxaca and his Mazatec ancestors, his family life both there and in the U. S., and the experience of belonging to both far and near. In these poems, his self-reflective vision of living at once in the North and South awakens us to what is near, just outside the window, and to what is far, the jaguar in the ravine. In this bravely envisioned collection of poems, we read and feel transformed in its light, having grown closer to one another and to the earth, the source of song and beauty.”

“With six chapbooks already to her credit, Cathryn Cofell presents her first full-length collection, and it’s wonderful. Sister Satellite has sass and snap, a fresh and entertaining voice, but it also wields a sharp edge, cutting deeper as it goes deeper. Sharper and deeper. Frankly feminist, Cofell’s energetic, unconventional poems tell hard truths with wit and wide-open eyes. Every woman should read this book. So should every man.”
